The Brown Bag Word Processor was an inexpensive word processor that offered features comparable to more expensive programs. It is essentially an OEM licensed version of Quicksoft's PC-Write with a different user interface. Formatting is done using "dot" commands and it includes a mail-merge module.   Important: This software is copy protected. To create usable disks, you must use the Kryoflux, SCP, or Transcopy images.   Protection method: Overlapping duplicate sectors on track 8 head 0.   This disk was unused, and requires an "authorization code" to fully use the software. This was a form of product activation, and no codes are available.
